Idlewood rezoning decision expected in about two weeks

By JUNE M. HEDDT
The Waveland Board of Aldermen plan to decide in less than two weeks if an undeveloped portion of Idlewood Subdivision should be rezoned.
The board should make its decision at the next regular meeting scheduled for 6 p.m. May 18.
Mayor John Longo of Waveland stated at a special board meeting Thursday night regarding the decision, "We will take into consideration issues discussed at the public hearing tonight."
Approximately 30 residents from the subdivision came to the hearing to make statements on how they felt about the rezoning in their neighborhood.
Delmar Wilcox, potential developer of the Phase II property, was represented by his son, Carl Wilcox, at the meeting. He presented the Idlewood residents with what he called a compromise in the form of a proposed alternate plan.

Wilcox offered to add a five-acre buffer area between the existing Idlewood development and the undeveloped area for proposed use in the construction of townhouses.
He said his brother, Jimmy Wilcox, is buying the five-acres of property, that will be the buffer area. He will build a one-family structure to be his home.
The remainder of the land could be rezoned to R-3 property, Carl Wilcox said.
After hearing Wilcox's proposal, residents of Idlewood emphasized several issues.

One resident said, "We want to protect our quality of life, this is the place we picked versus Gulfport and we want to keep the high quality of our neighborhood. For us to accept rezoning, that is to yield, that's no compromise."
Another resident asked, "If the property is rezoned what guarantee is there that you won't put in low-income housing or go back next week to have the property rezoned again to commercial?"
Wilcox said, "We don't have any guarantee except that we plan on building high quality town homes on that property."
A member of the Idlewood group said, "I have a friend from Diamondhead who wants to purchase a lot in Idlewood, he told me with all the apartments and condominiums being built in Diamondhead it's getting awful, but if Idlewood is building apartments I don't want it."

Wilcox responded, "We are not going to build Bayside or Shoreline Park type housing. We are looking for people of better quality to buy the townhomes."
He added, "Remember, my brother will be living in Idlewood, he wouldn't want anything built that would lower the value of his property."
"I lived in a subdivision called Sherwood Forest in Gulfport, it was nice when I moved in but then they started building shopping centers, churches, and apartments all around it. They killed the potential of housing, now."

Members in the group from Idlewood directed questions to Lucien G. attorney for the aldermen, asking him, "If the zoning committee recommends inside out to rezoning, will the aldermen have to decide by a certain majority to reject the recommendation?"
Gex answered, "If 20 percent of the people owning land in the area to be rezoned are against it, then the board must pass by a two-thirds vote. If there were a tie, then the mayor would have to break the tie."
"One other item I think should be mentioned," said another resident, "With high density housing, every time it rains a lot of it drains back into Phase II property. Now it stands to reason that if you cut down on the ground that absorbs water then the flooding will be bad."

A motion was made to take the zoning proposal under advisement until the next meeting on May 18.
Longo said, "This is not a rubber stamp board, we will vote fairly and equally under the law here. You want to protect your interests and I agree with you. We will talk about it, labor over it and be fair. I'm not going to be unfair to anybody because of pressure. I will tell you this, that we are going to render a decision on facts."
Barbara Rappold, city clerk, zoning official and alderman, said, "I will not make a snap judgment. I have always voted on the feelings of the people and these people don't want this property to be rezoned."

A member of the Idlewood group asked Herman L. Yarborough, alderman of their district, "Which way are you leaning?"
He answered, "I want to study it, I always have tried to help you."
He was offered a copy of the Idlewood Subdivision covenants and said he would study the document.

OLYMPIC FLAME LIGHTING—Garry Lewis lights the Special Olympic's torch Saturday morning at the National Space Technology Laboratories as he is held by Bob Short, Mississippi Area III director of Special Olympics and assisted by an unidentified sponsor. Observing the event from a speaker's platform are Stewart Nelson, master of ceremonies, and Capt. Charles H. Bassett, commanding officer, both of the

A Special Olympics Field Day for Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone Counties was sponsored that day by the Naval Oceanographic Office at the National Space Technology Laboratories. Main, US-90 to be re-worked

Highway intersections being studied by state

By ELLIS CUEVAS
The State Highway Department is in the process of re-surveying the intersections of US-90 and Dunbar Avenue, US-90 and Carroll Avenue, and US-90 and Washington Street according to Robert W. Moseley, assistant traffic control and safety engineer.
Moseley met with Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams; Brenda Anderson, administrative officer; and Danny Johnson, Bay streets department superintendent.
The local group received good news about the Main Street intersection when Moseley said, "The lights at US-90 and Main Street will be re-worked sometime after July 1. Every year the highway department re-works a certain number of signals in the state, and Main Street's will be done very soon."

"That work is under the new year's budget, and a survey is being done today (Thursday) on such things as signal sizes and locations, and that information will be used in July when the re-working will take place," Moseley added.
The state official in viewing the Dunbar Avenue intersection noted one problem by saying, "There is a need for a left turn lane on Dunbar Avenue, in all probability both North and South of US-90. This takes a lot of roadway for it to work properly."

Moseley indicated the orders for the surveys are already scheduled and should be accomplished within several months.
In looking at the Washington intersection Moseley advised the group that the last resort would be the installation of signal lights for safety reasons.
The engineer said, "The majority of intersections in the state with the highest number of accidents are at signal lights."
"I know this does not sound right, but the statistics back this. We are going to

First NSTL art show set to begin Monday

The National Space Technology Laboratories will feature a month-long exhibit of original art by members of the Gulf Coast Art Association, including several NSTL employees and Hancock residents.
Participating artists and association officers will attend a special opening day program Monday entitled "NSTL Art in the Courtyard" which will be conducted in the interior courtyard of Building 1100 beginning at 10 a.m.
For the remainder of the exhibit, the works will be on display in the main lobby of Building 1100 and in other prominent locations at NSTL.

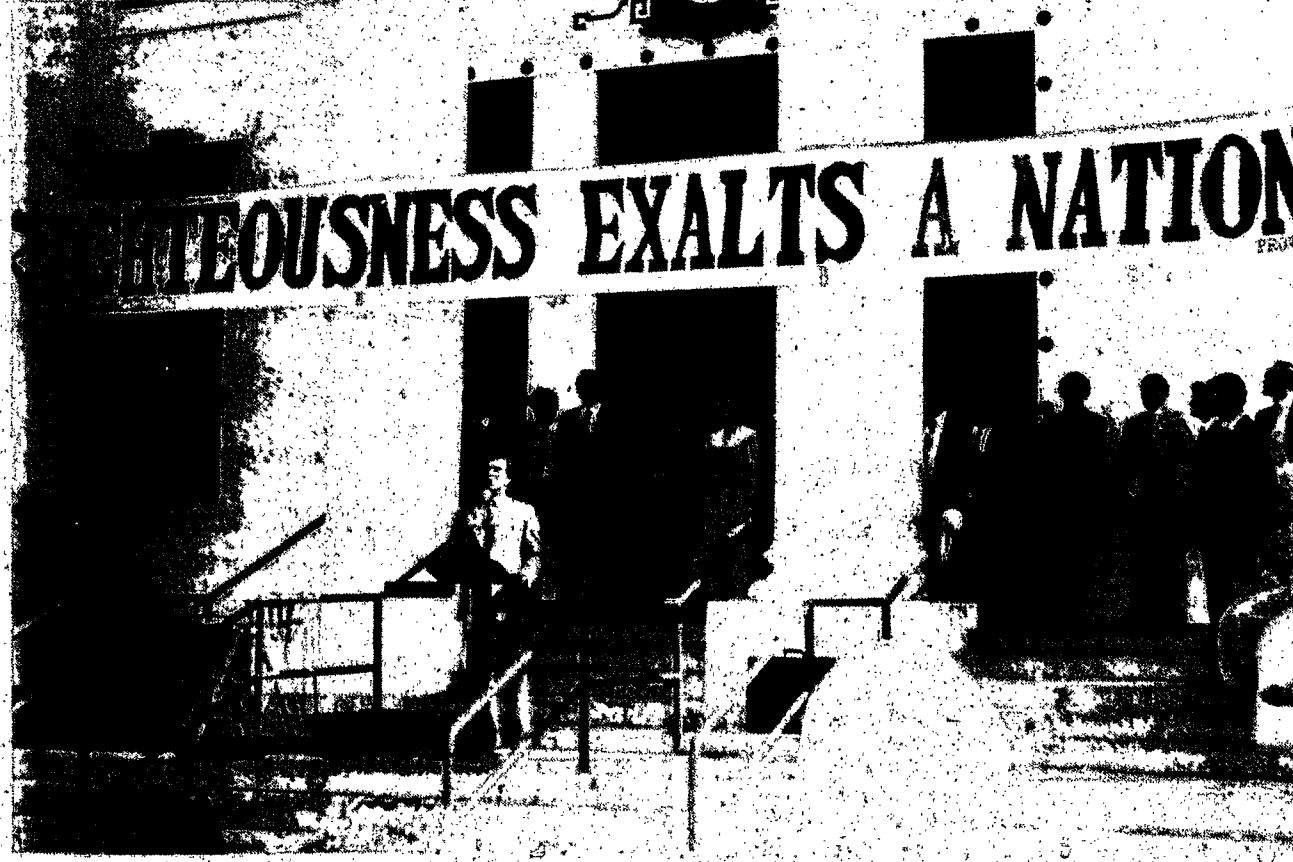

"The exhibit marks the first time NSTL has hosted a community art association showing in a cultural exchange bringing together the arts and sciences," Mack Herring, NSTL public affairs officer says.
The Gulf Coast Art Association, a member of the Gulf Coast Arts Council, was organized in the 1920s and its present membership exceeds 200, he notes.
A special committee of NSTL artists is coordinating the exhibit. Committee members are Charles Swan, Jim Wescovich, Mary Ellen Turcotte, Doug Mayberry, Gary Stover, Lois Nutwell and Laura Pletcher, Herring reports.

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE—Discussing possible locations recently for various arts and crafts booths in the fourth annual Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Beachfront Festival are, from left, Festival Director Pat Murphy, artist Laura Fidler, and Festival Treasurer Charles Benvenuti, all of Bay St. Louis. Murphy reported the event, scheduled for Sunday, June 5, is designed to draw people back to the revitalized downtown area of Bay St. Louis. Several new activities have been added to the festival, including an antique automobile show and a 3.1 mile foot race with cash awards to the winners, he said. Also a much larger number of arts and crafts booths are expected this year as well as activities for the youngsters, Murphy reported. Bands will include Jerry Fisher and the Deck of the Bay Music Co., Tonic Band, Guitar Bo and Miss Dee Band, and Pat Murphy and the County Line Band. "We are making a concentrated effort to line up more things for children," Murphy added. "One of the items we're looking into is a space walk." Anyone interested in booth space should contact Murphy at 467-4515 or 467-3594. (Staff photo by Randy Ponder)

Council seeking propane systems for vehicles

By JUNE M. HEYDT

The Bay St. Louis Council authorized Thursday the advertisement of bids for conversion of city vehicles from gasoline to propane fuel.

Several months ago Blossman Gas, Inc. agreed to convert eight of the city's vehicles on a trial basis and free of charge to show that propane is cheaper than gas.

However, when the bids are reviewed, if a bid is lower than Blossman's and accepted, the awarded company will replace the converters with their own.

In other business, the council passed a resolution to join the Jobs Training Partnership Act program which replaces the CETA program.

Pest Control Services, the company that was awarded the bid for maintenance and grass cutting at a Tuesday meeting, was authorized to start on the first part of its contract. Further authorization will be given when the contracts are ready.

The next council meeting will be May 17 at City Hall.

Corrections

A report in the Thursday issue of The Sea Coast Echo should have stated Danny Johnson, a City of Bay St. Louis employee, was asked by an Old Spanish Trail resident to inspect a drainage problem and not Bill Johnson, city utilities director.

A report in the Sunday, May 3 issue of The Sea Coast Echo should have listed the name Elizabeth McDonald Yawn, not Yarn.

In addition, the article should have reported that she and Katrina Overall McDonald met in 1912 at Ward-Belmont Junior College in Nashville; McDonald graduated at Vanderbilt and Yawn graduated from Ole Miss in 1918; and 50 years ago McDonald was elected State Parent-Teacher Organization president for a two year term.

The Echo apologizes for the errors.

study the traffic flow and see if it warrants a signal," Moseley allowed.

Moseley had been contacted by Williams to review the Bay intersections due to the increase of traffic, especially at US-90 and Dunbar Avenue because of the new commercial development.

In other traffic matters, Williams, with the approach of summer, appeals to motorists to observe all speed limits and to reduce speeds at ball parks.

"Pedestrians also have a responsibility in observing traffic rules, and the public should remember the no glass container rules for our sand beaches," Williams stated.

The chief continued, "We want everyone to have a good safe and happy summer, and this will mean everyone has to observe the rules and regulations."

"Proper parking at ball fields and along the beaches will be observed, citations will be issued to violators," Williams indicated.

On drinking and driving Williams said, "As most people know, the new DUI laws are very strong, and officers have been instructed to arrest any person driving under the influence. This is a must. Far too many persons are killed each year in alcohol related accidents."

"Persons on bicycles must observe all traffic laws and have proper equipment. Lights are a must for night riding. Violators will be ticketed," Williams emphasized.

The average person spends about 20 years asleep.

POINT OF LAW

Mississippi State Bar

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some legal rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your rights.)

Q: What are your rights if injured while at work?

A: The law requires the insurance company to pay all of your medical expenses resulting from the injury.

In addition to medical benefits, you are entitled to Worker's Compensation benefits if the injury causes you to miss work for longer than five (5) days.

If your injury results in disability of fourteen (14) days or more, compensation will be paid from the date of the injury.

Normally, while disabled due to your work injury, you are entitled to receive two-thirds of your average weekly wages, subject to maximum payment of $112.00 per week.

Payment is made twice per month while you are disabled. A claim cannot exceed four hundred fifty (450) weeks or $50,400.

These maximum limits apply regardless of whether the injury is one of permanent total disability, temporary total disability, permanent partial disability or temporary partial disability.

Your estate is entitled to compensation if your injury results in death.

If you reported an injury to your employer but received no benefits, you may file a claim with the Mississippi Worker's Compensation Commission or have an attorney do so for you. The attorney is entitled to receive 25% of your past due compensation as fee.

The commission can add 10% to your compensation if the insurance company is found to have been wrongfully holding your benefits. Your claim must be filed within two years of the date of your injury.

Quotables by Cuevas

We received a telephone call from a visitor from New Orleans on Friday who made some very complementary remarks about three teenagers.

The caller said that she and three elderly ladies drove over from New Orleans and thought they would enjoy the sand beach.

When they got ready to leave, their auto was stuck in the sand.

Several people stopped, and one young lady told them she would call someone to get them out.

Meanwhile, three young men about 18-years-old came along and pushed their auto out of the sand.

The trio took off before the ladies could thank them.

We know a lot of the news published about young people is bad, yet the far majority, whom very little is published about are fine ladies and gentlemen.

It sure makes us feel good to hear about deeds such as these.

Crews for the City of Bay St. Louis really got busy in cleaning up the isles in the Cedar Rest Cemetery.

I feel they have done a fine job, and all that is needed now is for some of those with loved ones to clean the grave sites.

Every year there seems to be a mad rush around All Saints Day, as many wait until the last minute.

We know there have been a lot of discussions about the traffic signals on US-90 in Bay St. Louis.

It is good new surveys are going to be made at several of the key intersections.

Better news was received by Police Chief Williams on Thursday when he was told by Robert Moseley, assistant traffic control and safety engineer that the intersection of US-90 at Main Street was going to be completely reworked by the state highway department.

We feel there has been a tremendous increase of traffic at US-90 and Dunbar Avenue, and the new survey coming should indicate changes in traffic signals.

Traffic signals have to keep up with the times and have to be changed on occasions.

Most folks are probably tired of hearing about blood drawings, but, we feel it is a vital program in our communities.

The Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post No. 77 of Waveland will sponsor a blood drawing on Wednesday, at the post home, Coleman Avenue from 2 to 6 p.m.

The drawing will be conducted by the American Red Cross' Hancock County Blood Bank.

We know Lyn Rutherford, Post 77's blood chairman would like to see a big turnout and collect 100 units.

So, we hope to see you Wednesday at the blood drawing.

There will be an Open House at Hancock General Hospital on Wednesday from 2 to 5 p.m. in observance of Hospital Week.

The open house is to include tours of the hospital, with hospital personnel on hand to provide free blood pressure screenings and pulmonary function studies.

A lot of changes have taken place at Hancock General in the past year and we hope everyone will take this opportunity to view many of them.

It is good to know the many services our local hospital now provides our citizens.

HGH has come a very, very long way in recent years on providing the medical services our community needs.

We would like to offer our salute to all those associated with HGH during National Hospital Week.

DAY OF PRAYER BREAKFAST—A World Day of Prayer breakfast was held Thursday morning at Scafield's Wheel-Inn and with James Ginn, vice-president of Hancock Bank, Bay St. Louis being the guest speaker. The event was sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and the Hancock County Pastors. Those in attendance include pastors, elected officials and chamber members. Ginn's topic was 'Righteousness Exalteth A Nation, But Sin Is A Reproach To Any People'. A special service was held at the Hancock County Courthouse Thursday afternoon with several hundred persons in attendance. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Idlewood homeowner offers three-point clarification in zoning dispute

The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

Below are three points we Idlewood residents wish to point out concerning the Thursday Waveland Board of Aldermen meeting.

—1. Some apparent confusion by the aldermen was cleared up as to when Idlewood Subdivision residents showed interest in the rezoning request.

Idlewood residents, with their protest petition, were interested participants at the first hearing — not beginning at the second hearing as mistakenly thought by several of the aldermen.

Idlewood residents have actively attended every hearing following. Ron Kozak, an Idlewood resident, read about the first upcoming hearing in the newspaper, and alerted the other Idlewood residents.

—2. The Mayor quoted he had always upheld R-1 zoning whenever there were local complaints against changing it.

—3. The Idlewood residents feel that the developer's compromise of a "5-acre buffer zone" separating Idlewood from the proposed townhouses (requiring access through Idlewood) was an apparent attempt to invalidate their petition causing it not to be binding on the City Council.

Protesting residents must lawfully be within 160 feet of the proposed rezoning area.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Carolyn L. Gurley,
Concerned Idlewood
Homeowner

LOCAL VIEWS

A delegation of community leaders from Mississippi and Ohio gathered in Washington earlier this week for an intensive conference on the American economy.

The event featured President Reagan, Vice President Bush and a host of other national figures from all three branches of the federal government talking with our local leaders and hearing their points of view.

The whirlwind one-day program was arranged by Congressman Mike Oxley of Ohio and me to foster two-way communication between leading business people in our districts and key national policy-makers.

The event was a huge success and I appreciate the response from South Mississippians as well as I appreciate the attention given us at the White House, the Supreme Court and on Capitol Hill.

Conferences of this nature are a natural draw for the Nation's Capital where many decisions made have a direct impact on the individual taxpayers and on the small businesses in our state.

More than 235 leaders from Mississippi and Ohio got together on this trip, which began at 5 a.m. last Monday with a chartered jet flight.

I think Congressman Oxley pretty much summed up the purpose of the carefully planned event. "The purpose of this conference is to enable community leaders from our districts to meet and talk with national policy-makers whose decisions affect economic conditions in our areas," he said.

A quick glance at the lineup of conference speakers made one realize just how top-level they were:

First stop, the White House for remarks by the President, Vice President and White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III.

Then to Capitol Hill for luncheon remarks by Congressman Jack Kemp of New York, chairman of the House Republican Conference, and Congressman Richard Cheney of Wyoming, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee.

Early afternoon remarks by Malcolm Baldrige, secretary of the Department of Commerce.

Then to the United States Supreme Court to hear Associate Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, the first woman to sit on the court, who was appointed by President Reagan in 1981.

Back to the Cannon House Office Building for remarks by the Secretary of Defense, Caspar W. Weinberger; the Vice Chairman of the Federal Reserve, Preston Martin; and Senator Robert Dole, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Topics included the economic recovery, taxes, interest rates, inflation and a variety of other issues of interest to small businesses.

The conference was helpful both to our business and community leaders as well as to the policy-makers who, I believe, now have a better appreciation of the results of their decisions.

MAYORAL PROCLAMATIONS—Waveland Mayor John Longo, left, and Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett, center, sign proclamations declaring May 8-14 as National Hospital Week. Participating in the ceremony is Phil Langston, Hancock General Hospital administrator.

HGH to include open house in Hospital Week observance

Hancock General Hospital will host public open house Wednesday from 2 to 5 p.m. as part of its observance of National Hospital Week Monday through Saturday.

"We Treat You Like Family" is theme of this national observance.

"The 1983 National Hospital Week theme expresses the sentiment that we think of the community as an extension of our hospital family," said Phil Langston, Hancock General administrator.

"Community residents can count on us for the human touch as we continue progress both in prevention and cure of illness and disease," he continued.

The open house will include tours of the hospital, and hospital personnel will be on hand to provide free blood pressure screenings and pulmonary function studies, which are used to determine lung ailments.

During the week Hancock General is also encouraging people to adopt healthy behaviors and learn how to use the hospital wisely to stay well.

National Hospital Week is sponsored annually by the American Hospital Association and its 6,300 member hospitals to foster better communication and understanding among hospitals, their patients, employees and the communities they serve.

Heavy rains cited in Waveland's high sewage flow

By WAYNE DUCOMBE JR.

Heavy rains within the last six months are cited as cause of 'major sources of inflow and infiltration' into Waveland's sewage treatment plant noted in an inspection report by an official of the State Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Pollution Control.

Jean Longo, Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District assistant administrator, in an interview just after the district board of directors' meeting Wednesday night, attributed the rain as cause of the BPC notation in an otherwise complimentary 'compliance sampling inspection' report.

The district is responsible for maintaining Waveland's treatment plant and the Bay St. Louis sewage oxidation pond—both cities maintain their own sewage lines.

In addition, as recommended by Ray Eaton of Lewis-Eaton Partnership of Jackson (Waveland's civil engineering firm), the City Board of Aldermen recently authorized Utility Department employees to check the cost of sewage leak detection equipment.

The BPC citation is based on six months of 'monitoring data' and an April 19 inspection, the report indicates.

"This inspection produced acceptable results and reflects a conscientious and efficient operation and maintenance program. I encourage you and your facility personnel continue the good work..." the report by Scott Burge of the BPC Permit Compliance Section states.

The letter is addressed to Ethel Schott, district administrator.

However, Burge's letter also reports, "...the facility (sewage plant) receives exceptionally high flows continuously. The district should increase their (its) efforts in defining and correcting the major sources of inflow and infiltration."

King Arthur legend will be pursued

As research into the legend of King Arthur by University of Southern Mississippi and British professors continue, the proof mounts that Arthur is more fact than fiction.

Participants in USM's Legend of King Arthur course this summer in London will be able to hear leading Arthurian experts and to tour sites believed connected to the Celtic king.

The course, one of over 30 offered through the British Studies program, is conducted by the Institute of Anglo-American Studies at USM and the University of South Alabama.

The course will deal with the genesis, development and significance of the Arthurian legend in all its literary forms. British scholars will cover the historical background of the legend, as well as English, Welsh and French materials on Arthur, according to Dr. Charles Moorman, USM English professor, who is leading the class.

Geoffrey Ashe, a leading British scholar on the world of Arthur, will take students in the course on a tour of the West Country sites mentioned in the legends.

Ashe was at USM April 21 for a press conference with Dr. Barbara Moorman concerning references she found in medieval French chronicles telling of a sixth century British king who went to France. Ashe believes this may be a reference to Arthur.

Some of the sites Ashe will be taking students to this summer include Tintagel, Glastonbury and Cadbury.

Tintagel, supposedly the site of Arthur's conception, is according to Charles Moorman, "A romantic looking place with the ruins of a considerable castle perched on a headland with the sea beating on the rocks at the bottom of the cliff."

At Glastonbury the students will see the remnants of an old abbey where 12th century monks found the skeleton of a very large man believed to be Arthur. Glastonbury is also where according to legend, Joseph of Arimathea brought the Holy Grail when he came to England.

Also at Glastonbury is a large hill, known as a tor, that at one time was surrounded by the sea. "This dovetails nicely with the part of the Arthur legend about the Island of Avalon where the wounded Arthur was taken after his final battle," said Moorman.

Library anti-drug event set

The public is invited to a public service program 'Keep off the Grass' Friday at 3:30 p.m.

'Keep off the Grass' is a program which encourages children to make decisions about drug use based on factual information presented in an entertaining manner.

Music, illusion, puppets, ventriloquism and comedy are combined to teach children about drug abuse, says Becky Mitchum, children's librarian.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Harrington of Bay St. Louis will offer this program and other programs to scout groups, churches, public and parochial schools free of charge, Mitchum reports.

"The library would like to offer everyone a chance to preview one of Harrington's 'Truth for Youth' productions," she adds.

Hancock economist warns of rabies potential here

With school vacations just around the corner, parents need to warn their children about the dangers of rabies, says Darlene Underwood, Hancock County extension home economist.

Warmer weather and more free time to roam about in fields and in the woods will increase the chances of a child or grown-up encountering a rabid animal, she notes.

Dr. W. E. Riecken Jr., epidemiologist for Mississippi, says the only animals in the state known to be rabid at this time are brown bats.

He says the bats generally eat only insects, but when infected with rabies they might bite anything.

There has been one reported case of a human being bitten by a rabid brown bat this year, Riecken adds.

Dr. Clyde Taylor, veterinarian with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, says people should stay away from wild animals that are acting "angely."

"Children are especially likely to pick up a bat that is lying on the ground," Taylor says. "Bats do not normally take naps in the open during the day. If one is doing so, something is wrong and the animal should be avoided."

Taylor advises wild animals should not be kept as pets.

"They can be carriers of rabies and not show any clinical symptoms," he says.

Mississippi's rabid bats pose a unique concern to health officials.

"Rabies has been epidemic among the racoons in Florida, Georgia and Alabama for years, and those animals die from the disease. But it is not known whether bats die from rabies, or continue to spread the disease for months or even years," Taylor explains.

Dr. Edward P. Hill, assistant leader of the Mississippi

Cooperative Fish and Wildlife Research Unit, says the effects of rabies on bats is not that well known.

"Rabies is a disease that people have been reluctant to study because of the inherent danger," Hill notes. "The vectors, how the disease is spread, haven't been identified. We're pretty sure all mammals can get rabies, and we think bats may be carriers of it but not susceptible to it, that they don't die from it."

Mississippi bats might, therefore, be more efficient at spreading the disease than Florida or Georgia racoons, especially in view of the bats' greater range.

Hill, who also is studying Mississippi's growing coyote population, speculates on the changes of a rabies epidemic among these wild canines, and states, "The likelihood is... fairly remote, but hesitate to say it couldn't happen. If one of those (rabid) bats fell to the ground and was eaten by a coyote we would have an epidemic of rabies among the coyotes."

"The danger there is that a person could outrun a rabid racoon, but not a coyote. It becomes severe in coyotes because they're so big. When they become crazed they might attack anything," Hill says.

Taylor recommends domestic pets be vaccinated against rabies every year.

"It's been 15 or 20 years since a case of dog rabies was reported in the state," he says. "We've been lucky. Vaccination is part of why we have been lucky. We could get it, I hope we don't."

Hill and Taylor agree wild animals behaving strangely should be avoided.

"Persons who see a wild animal that seems to have lost its fear of humans, or is acting in any other strange way, should call a wildlife officer or the health department," Hill urges.

"In Hancock County residents should contact the sheriff's office. If you live in Bay St. Louis or Waveland, call the appropriate police station and request assistance of the dog warden," Underwood suggests.

HGH joins University Medical Center organ transplant program

Hancock General Hospital recently joined the Transplant Program of the University of Mississippi Medical Center in Jackson, according to Phil Langston, hospital administrator.

"There are more than 60,000 people in the United States with kidney failure, and transplantation has become an accepted way to treat chronic kidney disease and corneal blindness," he said.

"As a transplant center, the University of Mississippi Medical Center must rely on hospitals throughout the state to assist them in evaluating potential donors, obtaining consent, retrieving and preserving donated organs."

"For those persons who need organ transplants, there are only two ways of obtaining a replacement — through living related donors, members of the patient's family, or cadaver donors, persons who have died who made earlier arrangements to donate their organs," Langston continued.

UMC, from 1962-1982, performed a total of 210 kidney transplants and shipped 144 to other parts of the country. In 1973, the center joined the Southeastern Organ Procurement Foundation which has a computer hookup with the rest of the United States, making possible the best match between donor and recipient.

The Uniform Anatomical Gift Act which has been passed in all 50 states makes it possible for anyone to donate his organs by completing a Uniform Donor Card.

And the 1973 Medicare Act states that all costs of kidney transplantation, including organ recovery and post-operative care of the recipient, will be paid by the federal government.

Regular funeral costs, memorial services and other burial arrangements remain the responsibility of relatives or persons in charge of the donor's estate.

"By joining this program, Hancock General Hospital has become one of 25 hospitals across the state that make their facilities and staff available to the transplant center to assist them in procuring kidneys, eyes and other organs for transplantation,"

Langston added.

Brochures explaining the donor program are available at Hancock General Hospital, or more information may be obtained by contacting The Transplant Program, University of Mississippi Medical Center, 2500 North State Street, Jackson, Mississippi 39216, or by calling 967-5535.

OES members attend meet

Barbara Necaie, Mary Jane Lader, JoEllen Necaie, Ruth Summers, Lillian Roberts, past matron and Jean Vierling, past matron of Bay Chapter No. 129, Order of the Eastern Star, attended the 77th annual session of the Grand Chapter of Mississippi held in Jackson. The group participated in the business session of the "This is My Country" segment. Mississippi is the birthplace of the Order of the Eastern Star. It was founded by Dr. Rob Morris during his years as principal in a little red schoolhouse in Richland, Miss. The schoolhouse is now a shrine where hundreds of Eastern Star members from all over the world visit each year.

A Worthy Grand Matron project this year was to erect a flag pole at the shrine to fly our country's flag. Before returning home, the group enjoyed a shopping trip and visit to the Jackson Zoo.

DAR MEMBERS ENTERTAIN VISITORS—At a house and garden party held at the home of Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet, Daughters of the American Revolution, welcomed visitors from Lake Charles and Minden, La. Following a pledge of allegiance to the flag and a song "America the Beautiful" members gathered in the home for a meeting. Standing from

Pilet home setting for DAR meet

A house and garden party given Saturday, April 30, in the home of Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet of Highland Drive in Bay St. Louis honored Mrs. John C. Elkins of Long Beach, organizing regent of the Friendship Oak Chapter, N.S.D.A.R. and followed the first regular meeting of that newly organized group.

Gathering around the flag pole on the front lawn the daughters pledged allegiance to the flag, recited in unison the American Creed, and sang "America the Beautiful." The group then assembled in the large room of the home for a "getting-to-know-you" period where name stickers were used to help in identifying group members.

With a light rap of her gavel, Mrs. Elkins called the meeting to order, displayed gifts received from former State Regent, Mrs. W.S. Murphy and read congratulatory messages sent by newly elected State Regent, Mrs. William E. O'Hare.

Program for the afternoon was an informal discussion of the DAR owned museum in Washington, D.C. Mrs. Elkins said: "We are so fortunate to have Mrs. George Cassis, one of our charter members, as Mississippi State Chairman of the Museum."

During 1979 Mrs. Elkins, a certified docent, conducted tours of the museum which consists of 30 Period Rooms and a Museum Gallery. More than 30,000 objects are in the collection. The Museum is open to the public free of charge, is accredited, and also contains some 2,000 volumes in the American Decorative Arts Reference Library.

Mrs. Cassis, when visiting various chapters within the state, is expected to stress the Mississippi Room of the Washington DAR Museum.

Mrs. Robert Willems of Long Beach accepted the duty of maintaining the chapter's scrapbook, and Mrs. Mark Payne was selected as National Defense Chairman.

A committee composed of Regent Elkins, Vice Regent Pilet, treasurer Mrs. Curtis Walker, museum chairman Cassis and Mrs. Phillip Davenport will represent the Friendship Oak Chapter in Jackson on May 19 when they will attend a workshop on program selections and procedures.

A display of DAR publications and supplies gave new members an opportunity to become familiar with the several areas of service fostered by the National Society.

In all there are 24 fields of work in which members may contribute to the objectives which are: Historic Preservation, Promotion of Education, Patriotic Endeavor. Work of the National Society is projected through about 45 committees.

At the close of the meeting guests were given a tour of the garden where a profusion of iris, magnolias, roses, azaleas, begonias, petunias, marigolds, violets, mock orange, and numerous shrubs are in bloom.

Centering the tea table was an attractive arrangement of yellow roses interspersed with purple iris and mock orange. Cutglass and silver service was selected and guests lingered for a social hour in the patio where two guests, Ms. Ava Jo McBride of Lake Charles, and Ms. Mary Kirkley of Minden, La. were cordially welcomed.

Money Talk

By Norine Barnes

Divorce

Divorce is a frequent cause of financial problems. The process of splitting a family into two parts with separate expenses usually means that the same amount of income that once provided for one household must now support two households.

Divorce where the couple have no children generally causes less financial problems. Property is usually divided in such a way that each partner has less assets than the couple together in present practices, thereby saving an amount of continuing alimony payments. However, it is frequently found that one partner must assume responsibility for the couple's debts, either by court order or when one party moves out of state.

Divorced persons without children usually are left to make their own way in the world. Each person must live on whatever income he/she can personally make. For couples who both worked, they must now reduce their standard of living to reflect both the additional expense of maintaining two households and lower income for each household.

Divorced couples with children generally have greater financial problems. Custody of children is generally granted to one person, the other ordered by the court to make child support payments until the children reach adulthood.

If the mother gets custody of the children, although she receives child support, she rarely receives any alimony that would help to pay for her living expenses. This means she must work in order to support herself. Some financial problems that affect a divorced mother are as follows:

—Frequently she has limited job skills and experience, especially when she married and had children right after high school.

—She is generally paid less than a man.

—She often has the additional expense of child care to pay while she is at work.

—She may lack self-confidence in her job skills.

—She may choose a lower-paying job due to conflicts between work and child care responsibilities.

—She may need to return to school to develop job skills.

Solutions

Divorce is a major life change and both partners must usually develop a completely new financial plan to reflect major changes that are occurring in their lifestyle. The biggest complicating factor may be the fixed expenses that the couple had while married, such as the house which must be sold when one partner can no longer afford to keep up the payments, taxes, and utilities.

The long-term solution to financial problems caused by divorce is to develop a completely new spending plan that is within the new financial capacity of the person. This may mean a great change in lifestyle since each person's financial resources are usually much smaller after a divorce.

Four go to Rome for mission work

Sam Wilburn, Bruce Burrows, Jack Hode, and David Ratcliff, all members of the First Baptist Church of Bay St. Louis are in Rome, Italy to represent their church by participating in a mission program.

"They will be lending their skills at carpentry and painting to help with a renovation and refurbishing project at Betania Conference Center in Rome," a church spokesman reports.

"First Baptist Church is a 'Mission-minded church,' working with sister churches in the Southern Baptist Convention in a 'Bold Missions Thrust' program through which they intend to carry the word of God throughout the world by the year 2000," the spokesman says.

"The four men are not the first of the congregation to travel as an arm of the church on mission trips. During the past three years, this church family has sent many people on missions of various types to several places including Kenya in East Africa, Israel, Michigan, and the Dominican Republic. Two of the ladies of the church traveled to Barbados for a week to help teach sewing through church programs there," the spokesman explains.

"This will be the second missions outreach trip for three of the men who went to Rome. Jack Hode lent his services in a building program in the Dominican Republic three years ago. Sam Wilburn helped a church remodel in Sparta, Wisc.; and David Ratcliff journeyed to California to help people 'dig out' after mud slides buried so many homes and businesses there last year," the spokesman says.

"The places these people are sent to are not simply 'pulled from a hat.' The Southern Baptist Convention Board publishes, on a regular basis, a list of churches or missions needing aid and what type of assistance is needed," the spokesman states.

Church members who are able to take time from their own jobs or who are willing to use their vacations to assist in those areas where their abilities lie, go through their pastors to reach the particular place they can help, the spokesman noted.

"However, the men in Rome heard about this particular mission before it was published by the Convention Board while some of the members of First Baptist Church were in Rome last year. Thus, these four men identify closely to this particular outreach," the spokesman adds.

ETV Brief

GUITAR VIRTUOSO

"Xrooftop club," a city evening skyline and the swing style of guitar virtuoso Skeets McWilliams set the mood for an hour of music at 8 p.m., Monday, May 16, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

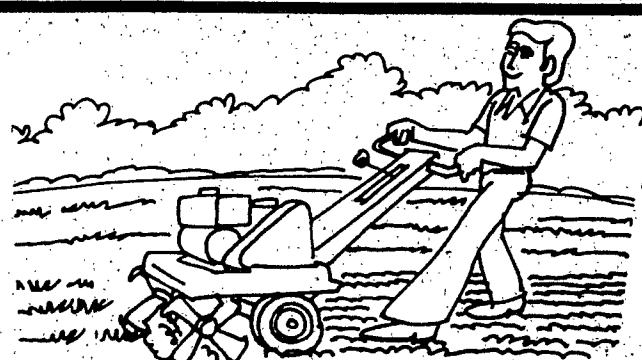

In a studio setting at Mississippi ETV reminiscent of a rooftop patio in a starlit city, McWilliams and his musical cronies entertain a live audience with such standards as "C Jam Blues," "Mood Indigo-Sophisticated Lady," "Brazil," "September Song," "The Breeze and I," "Lullaby," "Nuages," "Spanish Eyes," "Old Man River," "Hawaiian Wedding Song" and "Talk of the Town."

Accompanying McWilliams

in the performance are Woody Coats of Jackson on saxophone and clarinet; Murphy Campo, of New Orleans on trumpet; Reid Baker of Bloomington, Ill. on bass; Eddie Burt of Terry on drums; and Dick Goodwin of Greenville on vibes.

Henry "Skeets" McWilliams played in two well-known bands while he was in the Navy: Eddie Peabody's group and Ray Anthony's Navy Band. He worked for a number of years in Chicago after World War II and received rave notices from Downbeat magazine and the Chicago Tribune.

McWilliams is originally from Jackson and is presently residing in his hometown.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

By Shawn Murphy

MINISTER, BAY ST. LOUIS CHURCH OF CHRIST

This is the second part in a three part series on 'Personal Revival.' Again this is not my material. It has an anonymous authorship and is excellent for devotional and meditational study.

— Ephesians 4:28: Do you underpay? Do you do very little in your work? Have you been careless in the payment of your debts? Have you sought to evade payment of debts? Do you waste time? Do you waste time of others?

— Ephesians 4:31: Do you complain? Do you find fault? Do you have a critical attitude toward any person or thing? Are you irritable or cranky? Do you ever carry hidden anger? Do you get angry? Do you become impatient with others? Are you ever harsh or unkind?

— Ephesians 5:20: Have you neglected to thank Him for all things, the seemingly bad as well as the good? Have you virtually called God a liar by doubting His word? Do you worry? Is your spiritual temperature based on your feelings instead of facts of God's word?

— Ephesians 5:16: Do you listen to unedifying radio or television programs? Do you read unworthy magazines? Do you partake in worldly amusements? Do you find it necessary to seek satisfaction from any questionable source? Are you doing certain things that show that you are not satisfied in the Lord Jesus Christ?

— Philippians 1:21: Are you taken up with the cares of this life? Is your conversation for heartjoy over 'things' rather than the Lord and His word? Does anything mean more to you than living for and pleasing Christ?

— Philippians 2:14: Do you ever, by word or deed, seek to hurt someone? Do you gossip? Do you speak unkindly concerning people when they are not present? Do you carry prejudice against true Christians because they are of some different group than you are or because they do not see everything exactly like you do?

— Philippians 4:4: Have you neglected to seek to be pleasing to Him in all things? Do you carry any bitterness toward God? Have you complained against Him in any way? Have you been dissatisfied with His provision for you? Is there in your heart any unwillingness to obey God fully? Do you have any reservations as to what you would or would not do concerning anything that might be His will? Have you disobeyed some direct leading from Him?

— Colossians 3:9: Do you engage in empty and unprofitable conversation? Do you ever lie? Do you ever exaggerate? Cheat? Steal? Carefully consider... Do you overcharge?

— 2 Timothy 2:22: Do you have any personal habits that are not pure? Do you ever allow impure thoughts, about the opposite sex to stay in your mind? Do you read that which is impure or suggests unholy things? Do you indulge in any unclean entertainment? Are you guilty of the lustful look?

ASCS Report

Conservation Acres
Diverting a certain percentage of cropland from production to conservation practices is a requirement of the 1983 acreage reduction, land diversion and payment-in-kind programs for wheat, feed grain, upland cotton and rice.

By removing the land from production, the programs are expected to reduce surplus crops and bring supplies more in line with demand.

Rules and regulations were established by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service for determining the eligibility of land designated as conservation use acreage.

"This land must be cropland that was devoted to a small grain or row crop in two of the last three years," said Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office. "It can also be land designated as conservation acreage under the previous year's acreage reduction program or land which was sequestered and maintained in permanent vegetative cover in or after the fall of 1981."

Gennin said program participants are required to establish and maintain approved conservation measures on these acres to protect the land from erosion, insects, weeds and rodents. Participants who have questions concerning the eligibility requirements of conservation use acreage or questions concerning approved conservation measures, should contact their local ASCS Office.

You and Your Pet

EAR PROBLEMS
Marty: Does Dusty scratch her ears or shake her head?
Dusty's Owner: No more than normal.

This recent exchange between a customer and myself illustrates the misconception that dogs are supposed to scratch.

There is no such thing as "normal" scratching—if your dog engages in it, there's a reason for it.

A likely cause is ear mites and/or infected ears. Ear mites (related to spiders and red-bugs, or chiggers) are nearly microscopic in size and crawl around inside your dog's or cat's ears.

They are highly contagious, spreading readily from one pet to another. Your pet scratches, aggravating the irritation, and irritation opens the way for infection to set in.

Symptoms you may be able to observe in addition to ear-scratching or head-shaking are a dark or light waxy debris in the ears (which may be too deep for you to see) and/or a sour odor. If your dog sports an objectionable odor, it may simply be due to problem ears.

If your vet diagnoses ear mites and/or ear infection, ask him or her to clean out the ears well with the aid of an ear wash—among other things, this lets the medicine get down.

Use the prescribed medication for the complete length of time specified! Even if the symptoms seem to have disappeared.

After completion of treatment, continue to inspect (and sniff) your dog's ears regularly to make sure the problem has cleared completely and that it does not recur.

It is a good idea anytime you have occasion to take your dog or cat to the vet to ask him or her specifically to check your pet's ears.
